BUILDING VALUE BEYOND ACQUISITIONS: How Active Management Drives Long-Term Growth, Resident Satisfaction, and Investor Returns in Private REITs

While real estate acquisitions are the most visible way to grow a private REIT's portfolio, value creation also happens behind the scenes. Active management enables private real estate investment firms to evaluate each property in their portfolio, uncovering opportunities for strategic investments that drive efficiency, reduce costs, and enhance the resident experience — all of which can drive stronger and more consistent returns.

Benefits of active management

Bringing property management in-house affords private REITs stronger strategic oversight, tighter cost control, and better alignment between property management and long-term investment goals. Private real estate investment firms who adopt this approach look to institute strategies such as employing on-site building managers, having in-house property renovation and repair experts, and demonstrating a commitment to continuously uncovering new cost savings. This approach enhances the living experience for residents and helps improve occupancy and collection rates. Effective property management often results in enhanced resident satisfaction and long-term value for investors.

To properly assess long-term value and sustainability, investors should look beyond property purchases alone and evaluate how well a REIT manages all aspects of its portfolio.

the living experience for residents and helps improve occupancy.*

At Equiton, we are committed to enhancing the living experience for our Residents through active property management, which helps foster a sense of community at our properties. For example, we partner with Apartment Life to offer regular and themed seasonal social programs, such as a holiday brunch, at our Alberta properties, Park Square Apartments and Emerald Hills Landing. The positive impact of this well-received collaboration was recognized when both properties earned a SatisFacts Resident Satisfaction Award in 2024 — the second consecutive year they've received this honour — and improved Resident satisfaction scores. We continue to explore new ways to make the communities we serve feel like home.

Investing in the Trust's Units involves risks. There is currently no secondary market through which the Trust Units may be sold and there can be no assurance that any such market will develop. A return on an investment in Trust Units is not comparable to the return on an investment in a fixed-income security. The recovery of an initial investment is at risk, and the anticipated return on such an investment is based on many performance. Although the Trust intends to make distributions of its cash to Unitholders, such distributions may be reduced or suspended. The actual amount distributed will depend on numerous factors, including the Trust's financial performance, debt covenants and obligations, interest rates, working capital requirements and future capital requirements. In addition, the market value of the Trust Units may decline if the Trust is unable to meet its cash distribution targets in the future, and that decline may be material.
